5 Small Shifts to Feel More Confident This Week

A gentle workbook for quieting self-doubt and starting to show up, whatever your day looks like.

Before you begin

Confidence isn't something you are born with. It's something you build, in small moments, through small choices, one day at a time. You don't need to feel ready. You only need to start.

This guide gives you five tiny shifts. Each takes under ten minutes. Pick one a day for five days, or read them all and begin with the one that calls to you.

How to use this guide

- Read the shift, then try the practice.
- Write your answers in the space provided (or a notebook).
- Be kind to yourself. Progress beats perfection.

SHIFT 1 OF 5

Spot the thoughts that hold you back

Self-doubt usually arrives as a quiet, believable sentence: "I'm not ready." "They'll see I don't know what I'm doing." You can't change a thought you haven't noticed.

Try this

- Today, notice three moments when your inner critic speaks up.
- Write the exact words it used.
- Ask: would I say this to a friend? What would I say instead?

A kinder, truer version: _____

SHIFT 2 OF 5

A 3-minute reset for anxious moments

Nerves are not a sign you can't do it. They're energy. A short reset helps your body settle so your mind can follow.

Try this

- Breathe in for 4 counts, hold for 4, out for 6. Repeat five times.
- Press your feet into the floor and name three things you can see.
- Say quietly: "I can feel nervous and still do this."

Where I'll use this reset this week: _____

SHIFT 3 OF 5

Keep one small promise to yourself

Self-trust grows from evidence. Every promise you keep, however tiny, tells your brain: I follow through. I'm someone I can rely on.

Try this

- Choose one action under 5 minutes (a walk, a message, a glass of water).
- Do it at the same time each day.
- Tick it off. Notice how it feels.

Your turn

My promise: _____ Days kept: 1 2 3 4 5

SHIFT 4 OF 5

Speak up, simply

You don't have to say it perfectly. You only have to say it. A few ready-made phrases take the dread out of speaking up and setting boundaries.

Try this

- "I'd like to add something."
- "I need some time to think. I'll come back to you by Friday."
- "That doesn't work for me, but here's what does."

Your turn

One conversation I'll practice with one of these: _____

SHIFT 5 OF 5

End each day with a win

Your brain remembers what went wrong far more easily than what went right. A two-minute nightly note trains it to see your progress.

Try this

- Write down one thing you did that took courage, however small.
- Write one thing you're proud of.
- Read the list at the end of the week.

Your turn

Today's win: _____

You've started.

That matters more than you think. Confidence is built by showing up, and you just did.

If you'd like support going deeper, my 6-week program walks you through it step by step, with weekly 1:1 sessions and daily practices, so you never have to do this alone.
